Cytotoxicity of saponin-like glycosides from mistletoe (Viscum album L., Fulg. et Lab.: Heath) against human glioma cell lines. The cytotoxic activities of saponin-like glycosides from mistletoe on human glioma cell lines (C6, U-138MG) and human glioblastoma multiforme (GBM) cells (U-87MG) in vitro were investigated. The cytotoxicity was determined by the

3-(4,5-dimethylthiazol-2-yl)-2,5-diphenyltetrazolium bromide (MTT) dye-reduction assay. The amount of the crude fraction (CF) which reduced the viability of the tumor cell lines dose-dependently was as follows: C6>U-138MG>U-87MG (10-15 mg/mL) and after concentration (20 microg/mL) could inhibit C6 cell growth by 30%, 55% and 75%, respectively, and U-138MG cells by 41%, 50% and 65%, respectively. Mistletoe glycosides are the active components, in particular viscotoxins and viscotoxin I are key chemicals for tumor cell cytotoxicity. The results show that the cytotoxicity of mistletoe glycosides is dose- and cell-type-dependent. Benjamin Franklin once said a body of wise men can accomplish what an army cannot. The holy trinity – the son, the father, the church – has accomplished much to bring us to where we are today. This team of religious leaders is only at the cusp of their full potential. “We need to make sure that we bless individuals, families and churches,” said Patrick Hoesly. “The church is a tool in the hands of God, so we need to be about that.” I love that phrase “We need to make sure.” We need to do that. We need to make sure
