My idea was to create a function with myClass& as a return type, and I wanted the function to return the variable, with the compiler not complaining because it knew about the variable. The problem is it won't let me access the variable. It appears that return types inside of functions are still undefined. Is there a way around this? My goal here is to make my header file cleaner, I like to see how things are set up. I'd also like to do it the right way, since I'm still learning C++. class myClass { public: myClass(); void myFunc(); int myVar; }; myClass myClassFun(); int main() { myClass myClassFun = myClassFun(); myClassFun.myVar = 5; cout bff6bb2d33

What's new in Elden Ring:

See, at Active Games, almost everything was 'in beta', so a lot of the functionality was 'crappy'... and due to this unfinessable gameplay, we, I mean just the admin team, got in a tiff with the creator, and he said that he's gonna'scrape' the company now and maybe make a new company... so yeah, i'm pretty scared with all this. But seeing this, I'm all for trying this game out, and get the feeling it's kinda like a 'newer' WoW, single player but online, so I'm all for playing it. Wtf is this game called now?I'm so lost in the world of Tarnished...Where am I? I'm the new living dead, my body in a barrel Is what the Admiral just said. i'm going to try this out just to see what all the hype is about. i am excited for someone to make a fantastic and awesome start which i want nothing more then all and the beautiful new game. i gonna of course play it.....i hope it will be the most amazing game ever. Wait, wait, wait. TRUST ME, when it comes out, you'll feel a real worldlier of the meaning of being.... like having your own station, where you can't click through your nodes and just travel. i'll leave the guide here till the game is released but in a nutshell this: Personal Stationess: There is a presence...you have your own station, you get new quests every day, your npc feels like a person, he will talk to you in real time, there are amazing walking animations, the basic stuff you get from regular MMORPGs which i am so excited and in my opinion is needed in the genre. More to come: what is the new thing? same with WOW and DAoC, PvP is outlawed There are two main battle types: This is perfect for you if you like the style. Full games (hardcore battles) are head-to-head. When a vehicle or monster is involved, the battle is a team battle pitting the allies against either your opponent's vehicle or monster (and/or your own). Team battles have the advantage of allowing your allies in another game to assist you in combat. While not the best aspect of the type of battle, it does allow you to

German media said that in total 10,000 refugees are currently living in the region, half of which are children. 'Nothing is confirmed' "This is not the right place to live," said Angela Merkel's spokesman, Steffen Seibert, in an interview with public broadcaster

ZDF. "We want to move people around quickly," he said. "We want to change the lives of people." The comments came ahead of a weekend meeting of Merkel's Christian Democrats (CDU) and their sister party, the Christian Social Union (CSU), to discuss the plans for the reception of over 900,000 refugees who arrived in Germany in 2015. Dirk Wiese, interior minister for North Rhine Westphalia, told reporters on Saturday that Germany had "no confirmed cases of malaria among the refugees" there, which was a "good thing". But other authorities disagree, saying that while they have not yet identified a specific source of infection in the region, the fact that they can prove people are without the disease does not preclude the fact they could be harbouring the disease. The number of malarias cases among refugees in the region has increased recently, with 673 cases diagnosed as of Friday. The total number of infections across Germany was 7,854, with the vast majority of cases being imported from migrants, and the majority of those imported through the Balkan and Middle Eastern route - around 3,400 infections

Our study evaluated the added value of multimodal evoked potentials (MEP) to the routine EEG in the diagnosis of seizures in typical epilepsy, secondary epilepsy (SE) and temporal epilepsy.
